which the interests of the building trade depend the result of united and previous pointailed.

A striking characteristic of the decrease movements is the absence of the intimidation that for merly characterized similar ones. Install of merly cha workmen are content to employ argument and say sussion, relying upon the justice of their demands and the public sentiment that is alway univariable in their favor. The rioting and degree on destruction of property that, in years gone of law to destruction of property that, in years gone of law to destruction of property that, in years gone of law to destruction of property that, in years gone of law to destruction of property that, in years gone of law to destruction of property that, in years gone of law to destruction of property that, in years gone of law to destruction of property that, in years gone of law to destruct the family are invited to attend his family are invited to attend his family are invited to attend the family are invited to at places under government control to work more cheerfully, willingly and intelligently, and, instead of the amount of work done being lessened, the country has actually gained by the change, including a large saving in gas and fuel. workingmen have shown their power, and the ex-hibition has been sufficient to make the capitalists pause before they provoke a contest in which they will, from every indication, eventually be worsted.

The carpenters on strike for the eight-hour rule resembled yesterday morning at Masonic Hall. The assembled yesterday morning at Masonic Hall. The chair was taken by Michael Purdy, and Messrs. Chy O'Donovan, Bernard O'Neill, M. D. Pond and Thomas White were appointed secretaries. There were about three hundred men present when the meeting was called to order, a large number having returned to their work under the new system, and the remainder being engaged in persuading the non-union men who still remained at work in the various shops. The committees appointed on Monday night reported favorably, and a number of new committees were appointed to look after the shops yesterday.

CHAIRMAN stated that the strikes had gone

The Chairman stated that the strikes had gone beyond their utmost expectations, and more shops had acceded than they had any idea of. They had salemated that the strike would last at least two weeks, but from present prospects it was likely to end in two days. He hoped the men would keep away from the bosses until after Wednesday, as the bosses were to meet on that evening, and then they would be able to find out their course of action.

A large delegation from Hoe's shop in Gansevoort street came early into the hall and were enthusiastically received by those present. This was the last of the large shops that held out, and as Hoe employs more than three hundred men their action in participating in the strike is of great moment. The smallness of the meeting yesterday and the diminished numbers outside the hall was due to the fact that more than one thousand men had resumed work at the new rates.

The three secretaries were kent businessed.

that more than one thousand men had resumed work at the new rates.

The three secretaries were kept busily employed in enrolling the non-society men, 200 of whom loined yesterday, making in all 500 since the commencement of the strike. The announcement that a society man, named Maginnis, was working ten hours a day for $4, excited much wrath, and several members announced their determination to put a head upon the traitor, but the Chairman said there was suncient power within the society to punish delinquent members and deprecated any attempt at violence. A committee appointed to visit shops in which working declared to strike reported they experienced considerable difficulty in getting inside the Bhops to talk with the men at all. The bosses seemed determined to prevent them. In all of them the men had listened to reason and had agreed to stop work, some of them at once and others at twelve o'clock.

After the transaction of some more formal business the meeting broke up, and the various committees went about their work.

A delegation which went to a shop in Chinton street, flarlem, could not succeed in inducing the men employed to leave off work, and for a time violence was apprehended, but no serious disturbance took place. During the day Mr. Thain, of First avenue, appeared in the Hall and intimated to his men that they might return to their work at eight hours. The meeting gave this gentlemen three cheers.

The amaigamated society of carpenters and Johers on strike to the number of 400 have almost accomplished their object, more than three hundred having resumed work and the remainder expect to also do so in a day or two.

The proposed action of the employers to compromise matters by acceding to the eight hours, but lessening the pay to $2.50 per day, is indignantly seconted by the carpenters. All or nothing, they may, is their watchword, and they will not be satisfied with a measure which will leave them in a worse position than before.

Last night the hall presented a very animated appearance; the steps of the peace.

OTHER TRADES.

The other trades are all stirring, and those which have no organization are rapidly forming them in order to be in a position to take action when the necessary time comes. The bricklayers met their employers yeaterday according to agreement to consider the eight hour question and the pros and consider the eight hour question and the pros and consider the eight hour question and the pros and consider the eight hour question and the pros and consider the eight hour question and the pros and consider the eight hour question and the pros and consider the bricklayers will strike on Monday. The organization is a very strong one and business is unusually brist, so it is to be hoped that a peaceful consultation and mutual forbearance will prevent the necessity of a strike. If the carpenters obtain their object, which they are almost certain to do, it may have some effect in induencing the boss bricklayers to not provoke any sustained action on the part of the workmen by a refusal to accede to their demands.

The cabinet makers are also preparing to strike, as they yelded early in the

the purpose of forming a trade association by its means to regulate their hours of labor and rates of pay.

The prade is organizing, and there seems to be the read feeling among working men that their time has come. The topics of hours and wages, the proper recognition of the rights of labor, and the growing power of the working men are among the gravest topics of the day, and are receiving a very arms mount of attention. This city has taken the initiative in the movement, but it is not by any means confined to it, as responses are coming in from all parts of the Union. Both the skilled and unatified laborers are participating, and the feeling in England has even extended to sailors, a class which has never struck before, and to the agricultural farm hands of the midland counties.

Whatever may be the issue of all these movements, it cannot be denied that the mechanics in this city on strike are conducting themselves in an orderly and peaceable manner worthy of all praise.
